

UW-Madison's Diversity Response

<https://diversity.wisc.edu/reports/reports/>

1988: Madison Plan

2008: Plan 2008, UW System

2014: Diversity Framework published and its ongoing implementation plan, R.E.E.L. Change.

2020: DIVISION OF DIVERSITY, EQUITY AND EDUCATIONAL ACHIEVEMENT (DDEEA) ESTABLISHES OFFICE OF STRATEGIC DIVERSITY PLANNING AND RESEARCH (OSDPR)

The newly-formed Office of Strategic Diversity Planning and Research (OSDPR) is now a unit of the Division of Diversity, Equity & Educational Achievement (DDEEA). Formerly the Diversity and Climate Researcher Unit, the OSDPR is responsible for research, evaluation, and assessment actions, leading quality improvement activities and supporting internal and external reviews for both internal and external stakeholders. <https://diversity.wisc.edu/wp-content/uploads/2019/11/DDEEA-Annual-Report-2019.pdf>

174 Diversity Initiatives

<https://diversity.wisc.edu/wp-content/uploads/2019/11/DDEEA-Annual-Report-2019.pdf>

1. Multicultural Student Center, Ethnic/First Nation Studies programs/departments (Afro-American, Asian American, American Indian, Chican@ and Latin@ Studies)

2. UW Morgridge Center for Public Service

a. Wisconsin Idea Exchange

https://apps.morgridge.wisc.edu/community_learning

/

The Wisconsin Idea Exchange is an interactive database designed to help community groups and the UW-Madison community find collaborative community-based learning and research projects. All groups can both post and search on the database.

b. Wisconsin Idea Fellowships

<https://morgridge.wisc.edu/students/wisconsin-idea-fellowships/>

Wisconsin Idea Fellowships are awarded annually to undergraduate student projects working to solve issues identified by local or global communities. Fellowships are awarded to semester-long or year-long projects designed by an undergraduate student (or group of students) in collaboration with a community organization and a UW-Madison faculty or academic staff member.

“Michael Thornton and Nora Medina Social Innovation Award,” a special honor made possible by a generous endowment fund for WIF projects that support ethnically diverse communities with affordable housing or issues to help close the academic resource gap.